Crusade Against Auto Headlights Started by State

Defect Develop Through Ordinary Usage and Improper Handling—One Adjustment in a Season Not Sufficient—Motorists Must Obey Law.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, Nov. 25.—Frequent tests of headlamps are advised with a view of improving night-driving conditions and lessening the danger of accidents. There is an impression in some parts of the state that a large percentage of motorists are operating cars at night without regard to the requirements of the law covering headlamps. This probably is due to the fact that some of the headlamps, previously adjusted, need readjustment.

Lights Needs Constant Attention.
"Statistics in the Bureau of Motor Vehicles indicated that headlamps on 50 per cent of the cars operated outside of cities at night have been adjusted at least once," according to a statement issued today by Commissioner Charles A. Harnett. "It appears, however, that motorists do not fully realize that headlamps, due to poor construction, improper handling in garages, or accidents, do not remain in focus for any great length of time.

"On most cars one adjustment is not sufficient for the season. The lamps must be looked after continually, the same as any other part of the car. When brakes are worn out or tires are worn out they are replaced or repaired without regard to the time that has elapsed since previous repair or replacement. The same course should be followed when headlamps are out of focus. They should be re-adjusted regardless of previous adjustment.

Motorist Can Do the Work.

"The ordinary motorist can adjust his own headlamps, the process not being difficult or highly technical. If available space for the work is in focus with little effort. The Motor Vehicle Law does not require that headlamps shall be focused in adjusting station. The law stipulates that the headlamps must be in proper adjustment at all times when in use at night. Adjustment stations are provided for the convenience of those who cannot or do not desire to adjust their own headlamps and for the provision of service on headlamps under the same conditions that service is given on other equipment. Detailed instructions for the motorist who wishes to take care of his own headlamps may be obtained on application at the Bureau of Motor Vehicles.

Light Problem Is Difficult.

"The problem of obtaining road illumination for the driver and preventing glare from fixed headlamps is one of the most difficult with which engineers and administration officers have had to deal. Ideal light distribution for the driver behind the lamps would create for approaching drivers a condition under which it would be impossible to drive safely. On the other hand, ideal conditions for the driver in front of the headlamps would give no road illumination.

"Any system that is devised, therefore, should be as near as possible to ideal conditions for both drivers. The system for adjusting headlamps incorporated in the regulations of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles is the best and simplest method that has been devised so far for improving headlight conditions on the road at night. To follow them means not only compliance with the law, but means also attending a courtesy to other users of the highway, which may be reciprocal.

Help to Eliminate Danger.

"If motorists keep their own headlamps in proper condition the dangers of night driving and the nerve-racking ordeal experienced by drivers in continually facing glaring headlamps will be eliminated. While they may not be the cause of a large number of accidents, dazzling headlights affect the nervous system in such a way that drivers are inclined to take chances which they would not take under other circumstances. This breeds accidents. Fifteen minutes spent now and then in testing and adjusting headlamps may prevent years of regret, fines or loss of registration plates."

"JAKE" FIELD WILL QUIT WALL STREET

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Nov. 25.—Wall street, in losing one of its most picturesque characters, "Jake" Field, who ran a fortune up into the millions from a $10 bill risked in a bucketshop, was out by nerve-racking speculation. Field has arranged to sell his membership in the Stock Exchange for $152,000. In 1908, he set a record by paying $25,000 for one share of stock. Field has had a spectacular career. In 1909 he made $120,000 in twenty minutes during a wild flurry in Rock Island stocks. He is quitting because of his doctor's orders.

Boy Scouts To Hike.

France Must Pay In Advance

French Credit In Exporting and Importing World Has Sagged Since M. Caillaux Returned Without Settling Debt to America.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Nov. 25.—The government's frowning upon loans to those countries which have not funded their war debts to the United States—principally France—is beginning to have an effect in the commercial relations between the two countries, it was learned today.

French credit in the exporting and importing world has sagged appreciably since M. Caillaux returned to Paris without settling the debt, some American exporters, for instance, being reported to the department of commerce as refusing to send goods to France except on a "cash in advance" basis.

This led the department today to issue a re-assuring word to business, that irrespective of what the French government's credit may or may not be, commercially business should go on as it always has.

Referring to demand on certain French buyers for "cash in advance," the department observed that "here, it is quite evident, is an instance in which want of judgment or true discrimination on the part of our exporters, is preventing an expansion of American overseas trade."

While American exporters have the advantages of mass production, highly skilled labor and labor-saving devices, there seems to be a certain degree of timidity and indecision with respect to the granting of credit in foreign markets, according to the department.

Current commercial indebtedness to the United States is estimated at from $300,000,000 to $400,000,000, although a greater part of foreign sales of $4,900,000,000 in the past 12 months has been done on a cash basis. Imports to the United States have been paid for principally in cash.

American exports to France in the last year were $285,000,000.

Enraged Father Kills Daughter

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Jamestown, N. Y., Nov. 25.—Philip De Vicentis, 48, shot two of his three daughters as they lie in their beds at their home at No. 13 Walnut street at 6 o'clock this morning. One girl died instantly. The other is in the hospital. The third daughter wrestled the revolver from her father before he could fire again. De Vicentis's wife and several other children, frightened by the gun firing, fled from the house in their night clothes. The man had trouble with the girls, neighbors said.

When police arrived De Vicentis was seated in the kitchen. He gave no explanation for his act, but calmly submitted to arrest. The dead girl and her wounded sister were lying side by side in bed. The latter was rushed to a hospital.

De Vicentis was taken to police headquarters where detectives said a charge of murder will be placed against him. He would say nothing about the killing of the girl.

Runaway Girl Pulled a Razor

Tuesday evening Policeman Fred Pout picked up Regina Popielatka, who said she lives at Hinsdale, Mass., and who had come to Kingston that day seeking work in the factories here. She was placed at the City Home for the night.

This morning police headquarters received word from Superintendent Edmondson that the girl had left the institution, leaving her hat and coat behind. Sergeant Phinney and Officer Relyea searched for her in the police car.

On East Chester street they saw the girl, who had obtained a hat and coat from someone. When she saw the officers she started to run through the woods. Sergeant Phinney chased and caught her. As he grasped her she suddenly reached down and pulled a razor from her stocking, but before she could use it the sergeant and Relyea wrestled it from her.

She told a number of conflicting stories to the police but as far as can be learned she is 21 years old and had left home seeking to make her fortune. The police will hold her and endeavor to get in touch with her parents at Hinsdale.

BOSTON POLICE SEARCH FOR "TOURING THUGS"

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Boston, Mass., Nov. 25.—Greater Boston police, spurred by a series of 28 daring holdups within ten days, nine within the past 12 hours, re-doubled their search today for a trio of desperate "touring thugs."

In all cases one third wielded a heavy caliber revolver in the face of the victim. Another searched the victim's pockets. A third sat at the wheel of a touring car and kept the motor running for a quick escape.

McDermott Charges Unfairness.

Supervisor McDermott in seconding the amendment said that in his ten year membership of the board he had never seen or heard of such an unfair report as made by the committee on Monday evening. It was an outrage and should not be tolerated. When election is over politics at the board should be forgotten. Such work has made the board of supervisors democratic. He could not believe the city would allow such things to go through. The report should be sent back to the committee and a fair report be made. It was a purely partisan measure.

Shults Plans Road.

The advertisement was laid over. Nov. 19. McDermott excused.

Cases Adjourned By Zoning Board

Engagements of Lawyers in County Court Prevent Hearing of Appeals Which Are Adjourned Until December 1.

The Zoning Board of Appeals met at the city hall at two o'clock on Tuesday afternoon. There were present Judge Clearwater, the president; Dr. Levitas and Samuel M. Watts.

Judge Clearwater stated that the meeting was specially held for the purpose of hearing the appeal of John Duffner from an order of the board of public works denying his application to construct a gasoline station at the junction of South Wall and Fair streets, near the stone cottage, and to hear the appeal of John A. DeGasperis from the decision of that board for permission to erect an addition to his house at No. 1 Boulevard to be used by him as a butcher shop and grocery store.

Walter Miller, the counsel for Mr. DeGasperis, appeared and said that Chris J. Flanagan, who appeared in opposition to the application of DeGasperis, was engaged in the county court before Judge Fowler and a jury in the defense of Weinstein, on trial there on an indictment of abduction, and had requested an adjournment of the hearing. Also he stated that Frank W. Brooks, counsel for Duffner, was engaged as counsel with Mr. Flanagan in the defense of Weinstein and requested an adjournment of the hearing in the case, to which Virginia Van Wagoner, counsel for Mrs. Samuel L. Drake, consented. Although it was getting late in the season he supposed that he ought to consent to an adjournment in the DeGasperis case because of Mr. Flanagan's engagements.

The board determined not to hold another extra session to hear these appeals but sent them both over to its regular meeting which will be on Tuesday, the first day of December.

California Mourns Death of Tarpey

By Telegram to The Freeman.

San Francisco, Nov. 25.—All California was mourning today over the death of Michael F. Tarpey, who died at Modesto yesterday of heart disease. He was 78 years old.

Ever since 1855 when Tarpey arrived in California he was a valiant champion for the state, active politically, and aggressive civically.

In early years Tarpey was an associate of the late Senator George C. Hearst, and in later years cooperated with William Randolph Hearst.

For a number of years Tarpey represented the Mexican interests of Mrs. Phoebe Hearst, managing the ranch and mining properties there.

During the last four years of his life, Tarpey was active in advancing the affairs of his own community—Fresno.

Tarpey for 24 years was the Democratic national committeeman for California. He retired from that position 16 years ago.

The burial services will be held in San Francisco.

Weinstein Found Guilty by Jury Of Abduction

Jury Out But a Short Time Finds Samuel Weinstein Guilty of Abduction—Will be Sentenced Monday—Margolis Next.

Samuel Weinstein, indicted by the grand jury and tried in county court on a charge of abduction, was found guilty Tuesday night of the crime as charged in the indictment.

The jury was out but a short time in arriving at its verdict. The People's case was concluded at noon and the defendant's case was taken up. Examination of defendant's witnesses was short, several character witnesses being sworn, who stated that they had never heard that young Weinstein was accustomed to attacking young girls and women.

At 3 o'clock the defendant rested and the summation was taken up. One hour each was allowed the prosecution and the defense and after the charge by Judge Fowler the matter was submitted to the jury shortly after 5 o'clock. The jury was taken out to supper and shortly after arrived at a verdict. The defendant and his attorneys were notified and at 8:30 o'clock the verdict of the jury was taken.

Weinstein was remanded to the custody of the sheriff until Monday, when sentence will be imposed.

The case involved the taking of a young girl from a local dance hall to the outskirts of the city, where an alleged assault took place. With Weinstein was Alfred Margolis, who has been indicted on a similar charge, and whose case will be moved at the earliest opportunity by District Attorney Traver. It was testified that Margolis invited the young girl, who resides at New Windsor, Orange county, from the dance to have an ice cream soda, stating that her girl friend would be there, too.

Outside the dance hall the girl friend was missing and while on Wall street it was said the two young men forced the girl into a Ford truck and drove to South Wall street, where it was alleged Margolis assaulted her with the assistance of Weinstein.

Later she made a complaint to the police and the two young men were arrested. At police headquarters the young men and the girl signed statements made by them. The statement of Weinstein was admitted in evidence Tuesday in court after a legal battle by his attorneys to keep it out. The statement was to the effect that the girl went willingly with the two young men and involved statements which are unfit for print.

Court went into recess until Monday at which time Weinstein will be sentenced.

This was the first abduction case tried in the county in twenty years. Defendants heretofore charged with abduction pleaded guilty.

REICHSTAG RESUMES DEBATE ON LOCARNO PACTS.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Berlin, Nov. 25.—The foreign relations committee of the Reichstag is today discussing the Locarno security pacts, and will decide upon rejection or acceptance of these pacts.

Although a large majority in favor of ratification of the pacts is now practically assured in the Reichstag, some of the smaller parties including the Bavarian People's party and the Economic party, will make their final approval dependent upon a satisfactory answer by the government to questions concerning Germany's entrance into the League of Nations.

The Reichstag will resume its debate of the pacts tomorrow and the final vote is expected Friday night.

FOUR AUTOMOBILES IN MIXUP TUESDAY NIGHT.

Four cars were in a mixup in front of the city hall Tuesday evening and all four cars were damaged but no one was injured. The cars of Ralph Hogan of 52 Elmwood street, and Frank J. Nardi of Route No. 4, collided. Chris Ortleib of 19 Spruce, who was driving on Broadway, brought his car to a sudden stop when he found the two cars ahead of him had collided and as he did so the car of Raymond Fator of 477 Oneil street ran into the rear of the Ortleib car.

Schilling Furniture Co. To Enlarge Factory Here

Will Employ Sixty Additional Men—Board of Public Works Will Provide Additional Sewer Facilities—Board Needs $40,000 Until Next Year's Taxes Become Available—Other Matters Relating to Streets Receive Consideration.

The Schilling Furniture Company, Inc., will build an addition to their plant on Deyo street and employ an additional sixty men, it was stated at the regular monthly meeting of the board of public works held Tuesday evening at the city hall when the furniture plant applied to the board to install an additional 360 feet of sanitary sewer in Deyo street. It was stated that the company was closing down a plant in another city and would remove it to Kingston.

City Engineer John F. Hallinan submitted an ordinance for the building of the additional sewer asked for by the furniture plant and it was adopted.

Electric Signs.

Applications were received to erect electric signs from William O'Reilly, 38 John street; A. F. Moynaux's restaurant at 269 Fair street; George B. Styles & Sons, 233 Fair street; Sundry Market at 16 Andrew street. All were referred to Superintendent Van Keuren with power.

Standard Oil Applies.

The Standard Oil Company asked permission to install a gas tank in front of the plant on North street and Strand. It would be used to load the big oil trucks of the company. The request was referred to Superintendent Van Keuren.

Requests Denied.

The board denied the request of the Sanitary Market to erect a fireproof smokehouse in the rear of the shop at 16 Andrew street and also the request of L. C. Dixon to erect a storage shed where house on O'Neil street as both propositions were within the residential district of the city zoning plan. It is likely that both matters will come up later before the zoning board of appeals.

Want To Dead Madden Street.

A deed to Madden street, a new street located back of the old Peckham plant, was referred to the street committee and corporation counsel to investigate and report back at the next meeting as to whether the city cares to accept the deed.

Mr. Burns Makes Request.

Arthur J. Burns, the real estate broker was present at the meeting and asked that the present established grade on Marlus street and Elizabeth street be changed as one street grade was higher than the other.

City Engineer Hallinan said that the grade could be changed on Marlus street to conform with Elizabeth street, and it was decided to prepare an ordinance amending the grade.

Offer of Land Accepted.

Mr. Burns also offered the city some land that would cut off the present sharp corner of Marlus street and Elizabeth street and the offer was accepted.

Not Decided to City.

A request from residents on Howland avenue that the street be graded so the water main could be extended was read and it was announced that the street had never been decided to the city. For that reason the request to grade the street was denied. It was also stated that it would require considerable blasting as the street was all rock.

To Borrow $40,000.

The board needs $40,000 to carry on its work until tax collection period and decided to ask the common council for permission to borrow that amount.

What Sewers Cost.

Superintendent Van Keuren reported the cost of building sewers which were now completed. Constructing the sanitary sewer in Reynolds street cost $42,232; a sanitary sewer in South Wall street and Winchell avenue, $1,648.29; a sanitary sewer in Manor place, $1,414.60; a sanitary sewer in Bullard and Greenhill avenues, $5,255.42.

The report was accepted and will be carried to the common council.

Plan for Cornell Park.

City Engineer Hallinan submitted a tentative plan for the improvement of Cornell Park on Warts street. He was directed by the board to submit the proposed plan to the donors of the park and see if it met with their approval.

Will Make Owners Pay.

The board's attention was called to the fact that under the city charter when a street that has never been improved is graded and paved, the property owners on the street must pay 10 per cent of the cost. This rule will be strictly enforced in the future.

The board then audited bills and adjourned.

Thanksgiving Day Service.

Sunday schedule will be observed Thanksgiving Day by the High Falls-Kingston Trolley bus line.

Mayor Issues Proclamation for Near East Relief

Urges Churches, Organizations and Citizens to Give Hearty and Generous Support During Campaign
From November 29 to December 9.

Whereas, the Near East Relief, an organization chartered by the Congress of the United States, has been a most potent factor in the work of relief from starvation and suffering of millions of refugees, and it has also cared for in its orphanages since the war over a quarter of a million little children who by war, massacre and deportation by the Turks have been deprived of their parents and who have now no father or mother save America as personified in the Near East Relief, and

Whereas, Kingston has decided to be responsible for the support of fifty of these helpless children of Bible lands at a cost of one hundred dollars each of whom over forty thousand are now in Near East Relief orphanages and of which number over sixty per cent are under 12 years of age. These children are not only being fed and clothed but taught in useful vocations so as to be able to care for themselves as fast as they reach the age of self support. In addition to this work about thirty thousand children outside of the orphanages are receiving partial support from the Near East Relief.

Now, therefore, Kingston having organized a committee of which Rear Admiral Francis J. Livingston is honorary chairman, and Judge G.
D. B. Hasbrouck is active chairman, and F. J. R. Clarke is treasurer, for the purpose of raising the necessary funds to ensure our city's adequate participation in this great philanthropic work, I, Morris Block, mayor of Kingston, do hereby designate the period from November 29 to December 9, for such campaign and I urge all our churches, organizations and citizens generally to give hearty and generous support to all the activities of the committee that Kingston, which has never failed to heed the cry of need and hunger, may become for the ensuing year a mother indeed to at least fifty of these little orphans.

MORRIS BLOCK, Mayor.

"Give to the needy shelter and bread, Giving is living," the angel said.
"And must I give again and again?"

"No," said the angel piercing me to you."

Nutty Natural History

By HUGH HUTTON.

THE JAVAN HOUND

As far back as 1700 Dutch sailors reported seeing this curious member of the wild dog family on long overland hikes through the interior of Java, with three or four spare waffles spiked on its tail. They were able to tell just how far the hound had traveled as one waffle could last 120 miles. Nowadays, the waffle-hound will steal waffles when it can, but usually has to make its own by rolling a wart hog about in a pile of sour dough, and making the fruit in the sun.

This individual is sadly contemplating a burnt waffle, and is about to go out in search of another wart hog.

He has a single peanut body, and double peanut head. The ears are split lima beans, and the tail is a clove. He has toothpick legs, and split peanut feet. You can't make such a waffle, as only the waffle-hound knows how.

parts which bear on one another."
say extension specialists from the state college of agriculture at Ithaca.

"If a machine is used continuously, it should be oiled every day, but with the moderate use that most machines get, an occasional oiling is enough. One drop of oil at each place is plenty."

Troubles and possible remedies suggested by the extension specialists include:

Breaking needles: These are nearly always the fault of the operator, who places the work so that the needle strikes the throat plate. Or a needle may be broken by sewing heavy seams or very thick goods without having the pressure on the presser foot heavy enough.

Breaking thread: The upper thread may be broken by wrong threading of the machine, the upper tension being too tight, the needle being too small for the thread, the needle being set the wrong side out or crooked, a sharp edge on the shuttles, the needle rubbing against the presser foot, or lint collected in the shuttle cavity. The lower thread may be broken because the shuttle is wrongly threaded, the tension is too tight, the bobbin is wound so full it will not revolve freely, or because there is a rough or sharp place on the under edge of the hole in the throat plate.

The machine may skip stitches if the needle is set too low, if it is bent away from the shuttle in use,
it is too small for the thread in use.

Never use a needle with a blunted point, or a needle too long or too short for the machine.
If the belt is too tight, the machine may run hard. If it is too loose, remove one of the joining hooks, cut off a piece, and connect the ends. Keep oil from the belt, as oil will rot it.

For best results, advise these specialists, have both the upper and lower threads the same size. A uniform motion will also help remedy many troubles.

These and many other points are brought out at the sewing machine extension course, which has been held over New York state during the past two years by the extension men of the state college.

CURRENT OFFERINGS AT THE THEATERS

A notable cast has been assembled in James Cruze's new Paramount production, "The Pony Express" to be shown at the Keeney Theater for four days opening tonight. Betty Compton has the leading feminine role.
Ricardo Cortez appears as the hero of the story, a pony express rider.
There is a delightful musical arrangement by Jimmie Connors and his orchestra.

Charles K. Champlin Company did well in their presentation of the play
"Lightnin'" Tuesday evening. Tonight the attraction is "Strange Bed Fellows." For the Thanksgiving Day attraction Mr. Champlin and his company will present Channing Pollock's
"The Pool," which has been endorsed by the clergy everywhere. For Friday afternoon and evening the attraction will be "A Mad Honeymoon." Mr.
Champlin today has the best company and the best line of plays he has ever given.

And speaking of strong casts, "The Lost World," showing at the Auditorium Theater this week, has the strongest in film history.

The cast includes the brontosaurus,
triceratops, allosaurus, pterodactyl, megalosaurus, diplodocus and other species of prehistoric dinosaurs which lived 10,000,000 years ago. All of them were several times larger than elephants, and many times stronger.

At the Orpheum Theater for the first half of this week five good acts of vaudeville featuring Parish and Verni in an act called "The Acme of Versatility and Kiddle Land Revue," a juvenile musical comedy revue. The feature picture is "The dancers" with George O'Brien, Alma Rubens and Midge Bellamy. There will be a new feature tonight, "Buffalo Bill, Jr., in "Saddle Cyclone."

Runs on Rail or Highway

The new type of omnibus built in the Transatlantic for travel by either rail or ordinary road is described as running over the road-rail with the front axle supported on a rail bogie, the bogie being on the rail and the driving wheels on the wheels. The 36 horsepower, water-cooled engine can run on the South African motor spirit known as Natallite or on producer-gas. The Parker gas producer is used, with charcoal as the fuel, a charge of 40 pounds sufficing for the round trip on the experimental line of 40 miles.
The rear wheels have twin spiral pneumatic tires, the front tires being solid.
The speed may vary from 15 to 20 miles an hour, and loads may be guiled up grades of 1 to 20. This novel vehicle can leave the track to deliver passengers, mail or freight, or can make special trips beyond the railway to any desired point.

Program for Farm And Home Bureau Annual Meeting

Annual Meeting at Kingston High School Auditorium Next Wednesday, to be followed by Banquet in Evening at Epworth Hall—Interesting Sessions Promised.

The annual meeting of the Ulster County Farm and Home Bureau Association will be held in the Kingston High School auditorium on Wednesday, December 2, at 1:30 p. m. The largest attendance in the history of the organization is anticipated. Unusual interest in each bureau has been concretely expressed in the successful membership campaign now in progress and this interest is sure to hold true when the roll is called on Wednesday.

The program for the joint session has been carefully planned and promises an afternoon of great value to both the members and to the organization. Unusual interest seems to be prevalent throughout the county over the election of directors to succeed those retiring. The terms of Mrs. Elmer Smith of Allgerville, Mrs. Edward Young of Milton and Mrs. Charles Smith of Asbury, Home Bureau directors, Fred DuBois of New Paltz, Joe Deyo of Gardiner and A. E. Jansen of New Paltz, Farm Bureau directors, expire at this meeting. Their successors will be nominated and elected to serve three years. Every member in the county is eligible to office.

Another interesting part of the program will be the report of the membership campaign by communities. To date five Farm Bureau communities and several Home Bureau communities have exceeded their last year's mark. With the close of the campaign still one week away other communities will be under the wire at the time of the meeting.

Two Good Speakers.

The speaking this year will be more than adequately cared for by Miss Mary Duthie, specialist in dramatic art, and Dr. C. E. Ladd, state leader of extension forces. Miss Duthie is already well known to many Ulster county people, having recently given a lesson in dramatics to large classes. Dr. Ladd, himself a farmer, farm reared and farm minded, promises the best talk ever given at an annual meeting in this county. Although the topic for his address has not been given out, it is known he will bring out a card of "horse sense" on farm conditions in this state.

Reports by President Davis, Secretary-Treasurer E. W. Hathaway and each Bureau manager will complete the program for the afternoon. The annual banquet and good time will follow the annual meeting at 7 p. m. in Epworth Hall. Members are requested to reserve banquet tickets in advance.

The program for the annual meeting will be as follows:

- Roll call by communities.
- Minutes of previous meeting.
- Election of three Home Bureau directors each to serve three years to succeed retiring directors: Mrs. Elmer Smith, Allgerville; Mrs. Charles G. Smith, Saugerties; Mrs. Edward Young, Milton.
- Election of three Farm Bureau directors each to serve three years to succeed retiring directors: A. E. Jansen, New Paltz; Joe Deyo, Gardiner; Fred DuBois, New Paltz.
- Secretary-Treasurer's report including financial statement.
- President's report for the year.
- Managers' reports for year.
- Resolutions and recommendations.
- Members will be asked for suggestions for improving the work of the organization.
- Address by Miss Mary Duthie, specialist in dramatic arts.
- Address by Dr. C. E. Ladd, director of extension.

Annual Banquet.

The annual banquet in Epworth Hall in the evening appears to be taking the members by storm. Or maybe it better be said "the members are taking the banquet by storm." Tickets are going like "hot cakes," (telephone calls, office calls, letters, (no telegrams as yet), are fast using up the available supply. The hall seats 300 with additional accommodations impossible. The early bird will sit down at the feast. Tickets will not be sold at the door. Get them now.

The program will be the best ever. This is an adequate description for members who have attended before. New members will do well to rely on the judgment of those who come each year. Just to satisfy curiosity it may be said that the program includes an orchestra, community songs, solos, duets, a "play," and a couple "surprise" numbers. Get your order for tickets in today.

BANDITS ESCAPE WITH $15,000 IN DIAMONDS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, Nov. 25.—Six bandits held up Samson Blank, jeweler, today in the street in Brooklyn and escaped with $15,000 in diamonds while he was on his way to a customer.

Blank was driving a small coupe, a few blocks from his home a large black touring car forced him to stop.

The bandits forced Blank, and one discovered the black bag of gems on the floor of the salesman's car. Blank furnished a good description of the men, their car and its license number.

MICHELLE'S REQUEST TO VISIT DAUGHTER DENIED

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, Nov. 25.—The war department today denied the request of Colonel William Mitchell to visit his baby daughter in prison during the Thanksgiving recess on his court martial.

Champlin Guest Of Rotarians

Head of Stock Company Supplements Interesting Reminiscences With Practical Talk Appropriate To Thanksgiving Season.

Charles K. Champlin of the Champlin Stock Company, now playing in Kingston, was the speaker at the Rotary luncheon today. Mr. Champlin is a member of the Rotary Club in Red Bank, N. J., his home town, and has visited the club in Kingston before, although not as a speaker. He prefaced his speech, which was on the topic of How to Give, with reminiscences of the days when he played in the old Academy of Music on East O'Reilly street, when now prominent and prosperous men with hair turning grey occupied the 10 cent seats. Meeting these men now on his annual visits to Kingston, Mr. Champlin said, made him believe he must be getting old.

The psychology of giving, Mr. Champlin said, is complex. Much of the thing that is called charity is only a rotten substitute for justice or an attempt to lead the public to believe that one is a shining light of generosity when he is only a charity hog scratching his own concealed back. Swapping an apple for a smile is not the highest type of giving, even seeking appreciation is seeking to exact a price. Giving that destroys respect and inflames vanity is not the right kind of giving.

Giving so as not to wound, and in secret, is the right kind. Giving is spoiled by pernicious vanity and standing around waiting for applause. It would be well for all of us to stand, metaphorically speaking, in front of a looking glass once in a while and finding fault with ourselves—standing on the side and seeing ourselves go by.

Mr. Champlin's address was heartily applauded and the wish was strongly expressed that he attend the club meeting when in Kingston on his next, which will be his 28th, annual tour.

Another visitor was Alfred Saxe, of the Towanda, Penn., Rotary Club. Attendance at the luncheon last week was over 95 per cent.

Speedy Passage Of Tax Bill

In the House is Generally Conceded—Bill Will Be Bombed With Amendments by Progressives.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, Nov. 25.—The paths were cleared today for speedy enactment by the House of new $325,000,000 tax reduction bill.

Under an agreement of administration leaders the House will dispose of the revenue measure before tackling any important business. Even organization of committees will be held up until the tax bill is passed, according to plans.

As a result Republican chiefs declared today that the House would finish the bill within two weeks after the session opens. It is believed this will give the Senate ample time to conclude with the measure before March 15, when tax returns are due.

Aside from the desire to have the tax changes written into the law as speedily as possible House leaders intend that the vote on this measure shall be the test of Republicanism in the House. They plan, if the so-called House insurgents vote for the bill substantially as reported by the ways and means committee, to welcome the La Follette group back into the Republican councils with open arms.

It is known, however, that many of the progressive faith intend to bombard the tax bill with amendments. They particularly desire to lift the surtax rates and increase exemptions for the "little fellow." A few even may counter with a separate tax bill.

With Republicans and Democrats on the committee voting identically on the main items in the measure, the bill's early passage by the House was generally conceded.

Britain Jails "Red" Leaders

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
London, Nov. 25.—Twelve Communist leaders were today found guilty at Old Bailey of charges of conspiracy under the indictment to mutiny act.

Five of the Communists were sentenced to a year's imprisonment and seven were given six months' imprisonment.

The case is the result of Sir William Jackson Hick's effort as home secretary to stamp out communism in England.

The twelve convicted men are: Albert Samuel Inkpin, secretary of the British Communist party; Walter Cant, secretary of London Communist party; John Ross Campbell, editor of a Communist weekly; Thomas Henry Winteringham, assistant editor of a Communist weekly; William Charles Rust, secretary of the young Communist League; Harry Pollitt, secretary of the national minority movement; Arthur McManus, head of the colonial department of the communist party; Robert Page Arnot, director of research for the Communist party; Walter Hamlington, organizer of the national unemployed workers committee; Walter Gallagher and Thomas Bell, Scottish Communist organizers.

Waterproofing Fabrics

Fabrics are now waterproofed by gluing with a thin coat of rubber. The process much resembling the ordinary waterproofing of umbrellas. The process is said to simplify the waterproofing of garments to a great degree.

Legal Barriers For Hanging of Chapman Moved

President Coolidge on Monday Signed Commutation of Bandit's Twenty-five Years' Sentence at Atlanta—Chapman Absolutely Refuses to Accept.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, Nov. 25.—President Coolidge has removed the federal legal barriers for the hanging by the State of Connecticut of Gerald Chapman, bandit, for the murder of a policeman.

In face of repeated official denials for two days that the president had acted in the Chapman case, came today announcement from the White House that Mr. Coolidge on last Monday signed a commutation of the bandit's 25 year Atlanta sentence for mail robbery.

There was no explanation of why the announcement was not made Monday or why it was officially declared at the White House only yesterday that President Coolidge had not determined whether he would accept the justice department's recommendation to commute Chapman's federal sentence that he might become the legal prisoner of Connecticut for hanging.

Officials Disagree.

Even though President Coolidge has commuted the bandit's federal sentence to the time he has already served in Atlanta on the mail robbery charge, government legal officials disagreed today as to whether Chapman could be compelled to accept it.

The president's act was designed to remove legal barriers that stood in the way of Connecticut's carrying out the hanging.

Chapman has been granted a reprieve pending argument of a writ of habeas corpus. His counsel contend that he cannot be hanged until first he has served the Atlanta term.

It is expected here that Chapman will try not to accept the commutation.

Chapman Refuses to Accept.

Hartford, Conn., Nov. 25.—"I absolutely refuse to accept," said Gerald Chapman when Warden Scott, in the presence of two of Chapman's lawyers, Joseph M. Freedman and Frank Murphy, both of Hartford, delivered President Coolidge's document to him at the Wethersfield state prison today.

Later, after the warden had retired and Chapman was in conference with the two lawyers, he said:

"I've been expecting this and, of course, the reason I promptly refused was to establish ground for an appeal as high as the United States supreme court to decide whether or not I or any one else must accept a pardon or a commutation from the prison."

Chapman was reading a book when the warden and the two attorneys entered his isolated cell room in the hospital section close by the new death house.

Will Ask For Second Reprieve.

Chapman probably will be reproved by Governor Trumbull late this afternoon. Hugh M. Alcorn, state's attorney, today announced he would meet the governor at 5:30 p. m., and formally ask for a second reprieve, giving Chapman's counsel more time to push their efforts to save Chapman.

A hearing on a request for a federal habeas corpus will be heard at the state prison next Monday. Chapman's counsel will change the ground for their request so that the issue will be whether a federal prisoner is compelled to accept a commuted sentence.

POLICE GUARD BANK WHEN FIRE BREAKS OUT.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, Nov. 25.—An entire block in the heart of the financial district was cleared of pedestrians and thrown under police guard today to protect millions of dollars in cash, securities and jewels in the vaults of the United States Safe Deposit Company when fire broke out in an extension occupied by a branch of the Western Union Telegraph Company.

The blaze drove scores of workers to the street and caused great excitement.

Great clouds of smoke billowed through the doors and windows of the building. It was necessary to run lines of hose through alleys and over roofs to reach the blaze, which was in an almost inaccessible part of an airshaft between a group of buildings. Defective wiring is believed the cause.

"DRI" VIOLATORS ARE SENT TO JAIL.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Greenwich, Conn., Nov. 25.—Charged with transporting 51 bottles of wine, Louis Saveloff, 22, of Stamford, Conn., was fined $200 and sent to jail for 30 days today. He was also charged with driving without a license.

Howard E. Harder of Somerville, Mass., was fined $100 and costs and received a 30 day term for driving while intoxicated. Harder's truck collided with a car operated by John W. Simmons of Corona, N. Y., causing injuries to the latter's wife and child.

The story comes that Rhineland dairymen are getting more milk from their cows as a result of cowhouse radio outfits which "soothe" the animals with "jazz music from America." It would appear that American jazz has at last proved its right to continuing existence.

President von Hindenburg has once more disappointed pessimistic expectations by throwing his influence in favor of the Locarno security pact and against the opposing German Nationalists. President von Hindenburg's election was widely regarded as a bad sign, but it appears to have been a good thing for the German republic.

In belated recognition of the fame conferred upon it by Charles Dickens through his novel, "David Copperfield," the town of Yarmouth, England, has decreed a Dickens avenue, a Copperfield avenue, a Pegotty road and a Barkis road—for obvious reasons turning down the suggestion that there also be a Steerforth avenue.

Edwin Markham, veteran writer of verse, is said not only to find Brooklyn's "wonder"-poet, aged twelve, "a bore" but to be repelled by her "sophisticated view of sex and life" and to be suspicious of her "special knowledge of history and archeology." He suspects a "genial hoax" by a collaboration of mystifiers. The girl's poetry may be explicable only on the ground that she is a puppet in veteran hands, but that a child should develop "a sophisticated view of sex and life" is not altogether incredible in an age of youngsters prone to laughter at the innocence of their elders.

The Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals of the Methodist Episcopal Church solemnly protests against the jokes of Will Rogers, Sam Hellman and other public entertainers at the expense of prohibition. Doubtless a considerable part of the non-partisan public is also disposed to file objection because the prohibition joke has grown so stale that it is no longer possible to get much fun out of it. For this reason it might be possible to induce the fun-makers named and others to reverse their method and deliver solemn (if more or less ironic) utterances in favor of prohibition. Unquestionably they could produce gales of spontaneous and hearty laughter if they did so in lieu of the rather forced cackles that greet their present time-worn efforts.

OUR OVERHEATED HOUSES.

An American woman wrote recently from London in a private letter that "the English have proved so often that they know how to die gallantly, but it will take them at least two centuries more to learn how to live comfortably." She referred in part to plumbing, but more particularly to heating, of which "there is none." Like many another American visitor, accustomed to a high indoor temperature at home, she could not adjust herself to the "cool" rooms in which the English are quite comfortable. Her experience was similar to that of the Northerner who leaves overheated rooms in winter to go south and "shiver" more indoors than if he had gone to Maine. She notes that the difference troubles the English as much when they come to America in winter, and that "they wonder how we can live in our indoor temperature just as we do at their ability to be happy in what is to us serious discomfort."

The question naturally arises as to which is the better for health, British "underheating" or American "overheating." Dr. Leslie P. Gager writes to the New York Times to say that the former is the more healthful. He attributes to the effects of American overheating the fact that "the waves of respiratory disease during the war fell on nights in the British and French and on days in American troops." It is due to the same cause that when our heat is turned on in the fall so many of us promptly come down with colds, catarrh, coryza, and varying degrees and types of sinusitis." Our "overdry, overhot air" indoors results in many recurring harmful infections as well as "hypersensitiveness" to cold. As has been pointed out in the Journal of the American Medical Association, the remedy is "an engineering problem that has not been solved, not apparently ever been seriously considered as a problem to be solved"—the problem of providing more moisture in the indoor atmosphere so that we can "dispense with a number of degrees of temperature and still be comfortable."

METHODS OF HEALING.

Physicians are often asked the question as to why there are so many forms of healing today, aside from the regular or recognized profession.

Your family doctor will remind you that practically all the advances in preventive medicine, and in the actual cure of formerly incurable ailments, are the results of the work of the regular school of medicine. This knowledge has not only increased the life span of man, but has prevented untold suffering and misery.

And yet why do these other methods of healing get a footing in a community, when the above are the true facts?

Simply because a man or woman suffering with a real or an "imaginary" ailment so called, is fortunate for himself or herself, always "hoping" to find someone who can help them.

And if there is one thing that those not in the regular profession abound in, it is the "hope," the "courage," they often instill into their patients.

A patient who has been everywhere, and seen everybody in the regular profession, only to be told that there is no organic trouble, finally consults one of these other practitioners.

With a full history of the case, and thus equipped with the findings of the regular physicians, he feels fully justified in going ahead with his form of healing. This may be along the lines of osteopathy, chiropractic, or even some form of faith healing. Knowing that the patient was discouraged by all his previous examinations and treatment, he endeavors in every possible way to encourage the patient, to increase his "hopefulness."

With what result?

He gets the patient to take an interest in life; his eating and sleeping improve, and he is often greatly benefited.

Sometimes these healers during the treatments, are able to get the confidence of the patient to an even greater extent than the regular practitioner, and are able therefore to give helpful advice.

The explanation of so many schools of healing is not because the regular schools haven't advanced, but because the regular physician too often is looking for some physical defect, and if there isn't one, then he is not interested any longer.

A few minutes spent in trying to heal the mind of these cases would not hurt the standing of the regular profession.

FREEDOM AND THE PRESS.

No daily newspaper was delivered from door to door each morning one hundred and fifty years ago. But the printing press was playing an important part in the struggle for freedom. Loyalist and patriot were using the printed pamphlet and the "broadside" or circular as a means of reaching their following and of making converts, and around these partisan publications there were many furies and threats of approaching storms.

One of these storms had broken in Virginia. Lord Dunmore, even though he bore the title of governor, had been forced to take refuge on one of his Majesty's ships in Norfolk harbor, and from there had sent a boatload of grenadiers and marines to raid the printing shop of one William Holt, in Norfolk, who was turning out revolutionary literature. This was late in September, 1775.

A little later some patriot pamphlets were published in Philadelphia and distributed widely throughout the country. The Tories replied to these with what they called "an unanswerable production," and one to which "all the sophistry of Congress could never have made a proper reply." London, a printer of New York city, although known as a patriot, advertised that this story answer would appear from his press on a certain date, whereupon a group of young republicans of that city foregathered at the home of said London and seized not only the original manuscript but "the whole impression as well."

The following day all the printers of the city received letters advising them not to print anything against "the rights and liberties of America," and this message was signed "by order of the committee of tarring and feathering legion." After this any loyalist pamphlets which found their way into circulation in America came from London presses.

Yet another instance where the printer and his devil were made to suffer, and when, late in November of the same year, Isaac Sears collected a group of volunteers in New Haven and finding himself on the way to New York decided to cleanse that city of one more of these "inimical" headquarters, and according to dispatches of that day, did so in the following manner:

"Sixteen respectable citizens of New Haven set out . . . burned a small sloop at Mamaroneck . . . and at noon of Thursday entered the city of New York. In greatest regularity they went down the main street, drew up in close order before the printing office of the infamous James Rivington. A small detachment entered and in three quarters of an hour came out with the principal parts of his type for which they offered to give an order on Lord Dunmore. They then faced and wheeled to the left and marched out of town to the tune of Yankee Doodle."

So did the merry patriots of New York send the answer back to the Britisher in Norfolk harbor.

Twentieth Century

4-Door Sedan

$1490

L. A. B. Cleveland

Today's Leading Value In All Four Ways!

Low Price

A richer, finer Chandler, and reduced $505 in price—that, briefly put, is the two-fold appeal of the new Chandler Twentieth Century Sedan—a magnificent 4-door Sedan priced less than a 2-door coach.

Thus quality now talks price! Chandler has gone considerably farther than the rest of the industry in reducing prices. The average reduction on the new Chandler closed car models is 19%, whereas the average reduction on all other closed cars stands at only 8%.

Chandler's new Metropolitan Sedan De Luxe, now $1795, and the new Seven-Passenger Sedan, now $1895, are both reduced $400. The new Brougham, at $1695, is reduced $350. Chandler open car prices are lower by $100 to $140. All prices f. o. b. Cleveland.

Advanced Body

A typical example of Chandler progress is the new Twentieth Century Sedan. It is an important development in modern coach-building—a distinct attainment of higher ideals in all phases of beauty and comfort.

The lengthy sweep of its lines, its distinguished radiator design, the mellow richness of its finish, the luxury of broadcloth upholstery—attraction upon attraction and advantage upon advantage are making this new Chandler the pronounced favorite of its price class.

Perfected Chassis

Here, too, is a major factor in Chandler value. The Chandler chassis is unique in strength and balance. It has been constantly refined and improved, until today it is recognized as an outstanding accomplishment in chassis engineering.

It is to this exceptional chassis that Chandler owes its road-holding sureness at high speeds, its buoyant riding smoothness, its effortless ease of steering.

Pikes Peak Motor

Great in so many things, Chandler is greatest in performance. Chandler power has won for Chandler a long string of brilliant records—the latest being the recent winning of the annual automobile race to the summit of Pikes Peak, 14,109 feet above the sea—in which race Chandler broke all records on the world's highest automobile climb!

This and many other similar contests have proved again and again the supremacy of Chandler power, carburetion, braking, steering and cooling.

In price, body, chassis, motor—in the four fundamentals of automobile value—Chandler leads its field. Make your own comparisons. Spend an hour examining the new Chandler—and another hour driving it—and you will hardly be content with anything else!

KILLS WIFE WHO STRAYED, THEN SEEKS OWN LIFE

Man Who Worked Two Jobs to Provide for Her,
Could Bear No More.

Jersey City, N. J.—"Margaret has started smoking and using a lipstick, perhaps not harmful, but where will it lead to?" wrote George H. Winters, twenty-two, to his wife's mother. "Oh, Mother, Cowles, if Peg ever needed you, it is now. What can we do to get her on her right bearings again?"

The other day police entered the Winters apartment at No. 109 Van Wagenen avenue, to find Mrs. Winters, twenty-one, backed to death with a kitchen knife while above her body swayed her husband, grunting: "I did it, I did it," through teeth clenched with the pain of a self-inflicted knife wound from which it is said he cannot recover.

Worked Two Jobs.

Winters worked days as a clerk in the City Hall station of the New York post office and night in a Jersey radio store. Before he lapsed into coma he told police he needed both jobs to support his wife, himself and Mrs. Winters' four-year-old son by a previous marriage, Conrad Williams.

From his gasping story detectives pieced together the following:

Winters returned from work at 3:30 in the morning to find the child asleep alone in the apartment. He went to the flat of Mrs. James MacCrickard and her two daughters, Cecilia and Margaret, in the same building, and asked for his wife. He was told she was not there.

Suspicious, he sought the patrolman on beat and demanded he search the MacCrickard apartment. The policeman refused, without a warrant, and Winters went home again. There he found his wife had returned in the meantime from a party, he said, with the MacCrickard girls and two men. She smelt of liquor, Winters sobbed. Frenzied, he killed her.

The unmailed letter to Mrs. Winters' mother, was found in the apartment.

Doctor Restores Part of Tongue Eaten by Microbes

Tokyo.—Strange things in medicine and surgery are often reported from Japan, but one of the strangest is the recent case of a girl whose three-inch tongue was eaten up to one inch by microbes. By cauterization, the surgeons report, they began to restore one inch of the organ so that the girl now has a tongue two inches in length.

The patient, Miss Sozoku Torii, eighteen years old, found while she was attending school that her tongue apparently was getting shorter. Within a few months the tongue had decreased to such an extent that the girl had difficulty in talking. She consulted a number of doctors who said they could do nothing for her. Finally one of the most prominent Japanese surgeons decided the tongue was "colonized" by unknown microbes. He tried cauterization and a "cure" apparently was effected. Japanese scientists say there is no record of a similar case.

Police Capture Five Tame Ducks

About 2:55 o'clock this morning police headquarters received word that five ducks were strutting and quacking through the school yard at No. 8 School and Officers Burger and Fatum were sent to the scene. Both officers are old hands at capturing ducks and quickly rounded up the five, placed them in the police car, brought them to police headquarters and locked them up in Cell No. 1 until this morning, when they were claimed by Andrew Kohl of Furnace street. Mr. Kohl said that someone had evidently opened the door of the duck coop, allowing the birds to escape. The police on night duty at the city hall were entertained by a chorus of quacking and also some solo numbers by the captive ducks.

Pinchot Again Discusses Strike

Governor Pinchot Will Again Discuss Coal Strike With Inglis and Lewis—Expect Something Definite To Be Accomplished.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 25.—Some concrete plans for bringing together the anthracite coal operators and the striking miners representatives are expected to be laid before W. W. Inglis, chairman of the operators' committee and John Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America by Governor Pinchot today.

Major Inglis was scheduled to see Governor Pinchot at the executive mansion late today and tonight the governor will confer with Lewis. It is the third time the chief executive has asked the spokesmen for the warring operators and miners to confer with him, although at the former meetings the governor admitted that he was merely seeking information. During the past few days agents of Governor Pinchot from Washington have been here in conference on the coal situation and Secretary of Mines Joseph J. Walsh has prepared considerable data and has been making surveys for the use of the governor.

Among those close to the executive there seems to be an impression that something definite will be accomplished within the next few days. "I have asked Major Inglis and President Lewis to come here to again discuss the strike situation," said the governor, "but further than that I have nothing to say at this time."

Miss Lauretta Snyder of Saugerties, teacher of the High Woods school, was arraigned before Police Justice Gardner of Saugerties Monday on complaint of Ernest Hartman of High Woods who charged that Miss Snyder had put soap in the mouth of his son for chewing gum during school hours.

The boy was said to have become ill from the effects of the soap and received medical aid from Dr. J. C. Kamp of Saugerties.

Attorney Grant M. Brinnier of Saugerties appeared for the school teacher and an adjournment was taken until Saturday, November 28.

Dr. Jacobson's Narrow Escape

Drove on Railroad Crossing as Gates Were Raised and Was Struck by Switch Engine—Car Damaged But He Was Unhurt.

Dr. Joseph Jacobson of the staff of the Kingston City Hospital had a narrow escape from serious injury or death Tuesday evening when his automobile was struck by a switch engine on the Flatbush avenue crossing of the West Shore railroad.

The physician was on his way to call on a patient and as he approached the crossing the gates were down to allow a passenger train to pass over. When the gates were raised Dr. Jacobson started to drive across the tracks and his car was struck by a switch engine which backed down on the crossing.

The automobile was spun around several times by the force of the blow and the front of the car quite badly damaged, but Dr. Jacobson, aside from a shaking up, escaped injury. He was brought in by a passing automobilist and engaging a taxi he made his professional call.

LUTHERAN BROTHERHOOD ENJOYS MEETING AND SUPPER.

A most enthusiastic and inspiring meeting of the Brotherhood of Trinity Lutheran Church of Spring street was held Tuesday night in the church basement. Three new members were added to the list making a total of ninety-nine. This society was organized on the 27th of last month. Most encouraging are the efforts which this body of men are showing.

A supper committee, consisting of William Walter, Louis Walker, Alvin Bush, Adolf Woelfersheim, Carl Ortleib, Harry Paulus, Fred Paulus, Edward Remus and William Van Keuren prepared a most sumptuous repast, a delicious turkey supper for the brethren present, which was high appreciated by all. To defray the expenses a free will offering was taken, which greatly exceeded the outlay.

The pastor in a few words praised the members for their untiring efforts in having organized such a large society in less than a month's time and encouraged them to continue the good work both in the interest of the congregation as well as of the United Lutheran Brotherhood and Church. He also emphasized the fact that a most enthusiastic spirit of fellowship is permeating the man power of the congregation at the present time, and that God's blessing is most visibly resting upon the congregation and the Brotherhood. The new orchestra was the guest of the Brotherhood and of the turkey supper and furnished entertainment highly appreciated by all.

There were seventy-one members of the Brotherhood present who will never forget this meeting of entertainment and fellowship with the true ring in it. The next regular business meeting will be held on the first Tuesday of December at 8 o'clock. The adoption of a constitution and other matters of importance will be considered at this meeting.

SCHOOL DAYS

Mother's Cook Book

We shall advance when we have learned humility, when we have learned to seek truth, to reveal it, and publish it; when we care more for that than for the privilege of arguing about ideas in a fog of uncertainty.—Walter Lippmann.

FOODS WE LIKE

CABBAGE in the early fall is crisp, solid and good flavored. There are many ways of serving it out of the ordinary.

Stuffed Cabbage.
Select a hard head, cut away the outside leaves, then soak in salted water to dislodge any insects that may be lurking within. Drain, scoop out the center, being careful not to destroy the shape and fill with a forcemeat prepared of a quarter of a pound each of chopped ham and veal, then pound to a pulp, season with salt, pepper, a little minced parsley and a grating of nutmeg, a tablespoonful of chopped green pepper and bind with one-half cupful of bread crumbs and the yolks of two eggs. Tie in a cloth, cover with boiling water and cook until the cabbage is very tender. Place on a hot chop plate, serve cut into wedge-shaped pieces. A sauce may be served with this dish if it is liked especially rich.

Halibut a la Creole.
Cook two cupfuls of tomatoes twenty minutes with one cupful of water, one slice of onion, three cloves and one-half tablespoonful of sugar. Melt three tablespoonfuls of butter, add three tablespoonfuls of flour, and stir into the hot mixture. Add three-fourths of a teaspoonful of salt, cook ten minutes and strain. Clean two pounds of halibut, put into a pan, pour around it half the sauce and bake thirty-five minutes, basting often. Remove to a platter and serve with the remaining sauce.

Apple Salad.
Apples have such good flavor in a salad that they should be served in various combinations. Take two cupfuls of diced apple, a slice of Spanish onion finely diced, one-half cupful of finely diced dates and season well with good, rich, boiled dressing. Serve on lettuce.

The Young Lady Across the Way

The young lady across the way says she doesn't believe the Philippine is for self-government yet as she sees they're still so bad they have a government.

WHO SAID

"Whoever gains the palm by merit, let him hold it."

WHEN Viscount Horatio Nelson, the great English naval officer, uttered these words he might well have been speaking of himself; for Nelson gained the palm through merit and he held it through sheer ability and tenacity, despite the opposition of his rivals. At the age of twelve Nelson entered the British navy and when he died, at the age of forty-seven, he ranked as England's greatest naval commander and strategist. Nelson's first voyage was made as a midshipman on an expedition conducted by Commodore Phipps to explore the polar regions, in the year 1773. In the year 1777—at the age of nineteen—he was made a lieutenant, and two years later he was commissioned a post-captain.

When the war broke out with the Republic of France, Nelson was made commander of the "Agamemnon," and he joined with Lord Hood in the campaign in the Mediterranean. He assisted at the siege of Bastia, and at the siege of Calvi he lost an eye in the fighting. For his gallantry at the battle of Cape St. Vincent, in 1797, he was made a rear admiral of the blue and was appointed to the command of the inner squadron at the blockade of Cadix. In his next engagement—an attack on the town of Santa Cruz—he lost his right arm.

Nelson was then sent to guard the port of Toulon and watch the French activities, but in spite of his vigilance Napoleon slipped past him and reached Egypt. Thither Nelson followed. After many disappointments he met the enemy in the Bay of Aboukir and decisively defeated them. Later he was instrumental in the restoration of the king of Naples, and upon the completion of a service against the Danes he was created a viscount. After the signing of the Peace of Amiens, when war again broke out Viscount Nelson resumed operations against both the French and the Spanish. He lost his life in the engagement off the coast of Cape Trafalgar and his remains were carried to England and interred in St. Paul's cathedral.—Wayne D. McMur-ray.

Among the NOTABLES

STEPHEN KEARNEY

STEPHEN KEARNEY was a great soldier, and came of a family of great soldiers. He was born in Newark, N. J., August 29, 1794, while the country was still ringing with talk of the great fight for freedom. He went to Columbia university, and while there the War of 1812 broke out and the boy left his studies to enlist. He was made a Lieutenant in the Thirtieth infantry and so distinguished himself, especially at the Battle of Quontown Heights, that he was made a captain.

The life of adventure of a soldier so delighted him that he never went back to civil life. By the outbreak of the Mexican war, in 1846, he was a middle-aged man and a brigadier general. He had command, then, of the Army of the West, and promptly took possession of New Mexico. He established a provisional government at Santa Fe, moved west to California, fought at San Pascual and had charge of the soldiers and supplies in the battle at San Gabriel river, and was twice wounded.

The hero of the West, he was made governor of California, but left in June to join the army in Mexico. The next March he was governor of Vera Cruz, and of the City of Mexico in May. Then he became ill and had to go North, where he died the following October in St. Louis.

Plum Pudding For Holiday Feasts

Recipe For The Kind That Grandmother Used To Make

pudding was, and still is, boiled in a bag. The pudding dough is rolled up in a huge ball about like a football or a punching bag, then put into a pudding bag and boiled in water. Because of the fact that so much of the fat and juices and good flavor of the pudding is lost in the water, the more modern way is to put the pudding into a large bowl, tie a cloth over the top, and set on a trivet or false bottom in a kettle of boiling water. Most of our plum puddings are steamed in cans or molds. A one pound coffee can makes a pudding of convenient size for a small family.

It takes time to prepare for a real plum pudding, and to make trouble it is just as well to make a large enough supply to last through the winter. A few small puddings made in baking powder cans may be just the thing for some of the special dinners around holidays time when a large pudding is not needed. This plum pudding is a luscious recipe, that has come down from our great grandmothers.

Plum Pudding
1 lb. sugar
1 lb. raisins
1 lb. currants

Amount—4 one lb. cans.
There are two sauces that go well with plum pudding. One is hard and the other a hot liquid sauce. Here they are:
Plum Pudding Hard Sauce
1/2 cup butter
1 cup powdered sugar
1/2 tsp. vanilla
1/2 tsp. lemon extract
Method
1—Cream the butter. 2—Add sugar gradually. 3—Add flavoring. Any fruit juice may be used for flavoring. This will make six servings.

Plum Pudding Hot Sauce
2 egg yolks
1 cup sugar
2 tsp. flour
1 cup boiling water
1/2 cup butter
1/2 tsp. lemon juice
1/2 tsp. grated nutmeg
2 egg whites
Method
1—Beat egg yolks until light. 2—Add gradually sugar and flour mixed. 3—Add boiling water and cook until mixture thickens, stirring constantly. 4—Add butter and cook. 5—Add lemon juice and nutmeg. 6—Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites.

Indictments for War Frauds End

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, Nov. 25.—The last of the war fraud indictments obtained by the department of justice was wiped from the records of the District of Columbia supreme court today.

It was the indictment of E. M. Davis of New York and Ernest C. Morse of Cincinnati, former director of sales of war material for the war department, for conspiracy in connection with the sale of the Old Hickory Powder plant at Jacksonville, Tenn. Alexander Phillips, also indicted in this case, died in August, 1922.

The indictment was nolle prossed by Peyton Gordon, United States district attorney.

Ancient and Modern Systems of Currency

In the early days of our civilization when a man's flocks and herds were his only possessions, they also constituted his money, and when metal coins were first introduced many had cattle stamped on them.

The Latin for cattle is "pecus" and it is not a far stretch from this to our word "pecuniary," which is usually associated with money.

Again the word "cattle" is derived from "capital," the origin of which is the Latin word "caput," meaning a head, and from the very earliest times beasts have been spoken of as so much per head.

It is curious, too, how agriculture has indirectly affected our system of currency. When man found it easier to dig with a bronze or iron spade than with wood, it was not long before iron and bronze coins came into use. Later, when gold and silver were discovered, they were quickly adopted for currency.

The word "salary" comes from "salline." When the Romans dominated Britain they took possession of a great many of the salt mines, because salt was then a valuable commodity; in addition, workmen in the salt mines were frequently paid with salt, and it was not long before this form of remuneration became known as salary.

Would Have History Recorded on Tablets

If we of today were very much concerned that people 10,000 or 15,000 years hence shall know who we were and what we did, we suppose we should follow the advice of Albert Vanderlian, ceramic expert, and make a pictorial record of ourselves and our achievements on clay plaques. Newsprint crumbles in a few decades, books and manuscripts are perishable, wood turns to dust and iron to rust, brick becomes earth, the marble tombstone weathers into a limestone devoid of inscriptions, and, as we have learned, our national capitol is built of rotten sandstone which only repeated coats of weatherproof paint have kept from disintegration. Nothing lasts except glazed pottery—a thing more enduring than stone or metal.

It is looking a long way ahead, but there would be point in reproducing the characteristic physiognomies, edifices, machines and products of our civilization in baked clay. Anyway, we wish prehistoric man had done more systematic work of this kind for the benefit of his successors.—Cincinnati Times-Star.

Hymns Form Links

The Old and the New worlds have been linked by hymns. Doctor Reeves tells how American history opened with the singing of a Christian hymn. "On the evening of September 25, 1492, one of the companions of Columbus saw what he thought to be land lying dimly in the west. . . . From all three of the ships, as Columbus himself gives the account in his diary, there rose the sound of the old Gloria in Excelsis Deo." We learn that later in the history of Christian America "The Bay Psalm Book" was printed in the modest dwelling of the first president of Harvard, President Dwight of Yale, who was a chaplain in the Revolutionary army, edited and partly wrote what was for years the leading hymn and psalm book in the country. In 1737 at Charleston, S. C., John Wesley, an Anglican missionary, published the first hymn book of the Church of England.—W. M. Lettis in Yale Review.

Famous American Society

The Society of Officers of the Continental army called the Society of the Cincinnati, was founded by regular officers of the Continental army at the headquarters of Baron von Steuben on the Hudson, 1783, was named for a traditional Roman dictator, Lucius Quinctius Cincinnatus, born about 419 A. D. The name was adopted in allusion to the approaching change from military to civil pursuits and referred to the fact that Cincinnatus when named dictator was discovered by the dictator sent to advise him of the honor, digging on his farm beyond the Tiber, an occupation he was loath to leave and eager to resume after much military glory.

No Longer Satisfied With Looker-On Role

Bobby, age five, sitting with majesty in the barber's chair, gazed with scorn upon his sister, age seven.

"I asked for you to come with us," he remarked haughtily, "so you could look at me while I have my hair cut. And you are not looking."

Oh, but there was accusation, dire reproach in his youthful fury. "I am tired of looking. I don't want to look any more. I want my own hair cut," snuffed sister. "It is your turn to look at me."

Bobby's lip quivered. Traitorous, jealous sister. . . . Ser, just wait till he got her house. He'd pull her hair.

It's happening all over the world in every age, in every walk of life. Sister is tired of looking. . . .

Genius Poorly Rewarded

The discovery of the correct position and physiological function of the heart, when announced by Andreas Vesalius, the Belgian master of anatomy, was received on the one hand with cold skepticism, and on the other with hot opposition. Slowly, grudgingly, the worth of it was recognized. Reward, in proper measure, was not given. But it provided the stepping-stone enabling William Harvey to discover the circulation of the blood.

Vesalius was a native of Antwerp, his period being 1514-1564. At fourteen he was a student of medicine in Louvain; at twenty he was in Venice, and the year following became public demonstrator at Padua. In Bologna he gained a professorship and in Pisa a similar chair. At twenty-eight his incomparable treatise on human anatomy appeared.—London Graphic.

No Mail for Him

The postal service is laughing at the story of a post-office inspector who went into the hills of Arkansas to check up a village post office. The neighbors said the P. M. had gone fishing. Finding him, the inspector asked, "Are you the postmaster?" After a minute the P. M. said, "Yep. What's your name?" "P. D. Smith." The P. M. reached into his back pocket, took out a bunch of letters and running over them for the addresses, said, "None. Nothing for ye," and went on fishing.—Casper's Weekly.

Miserable Despair

Despair makes a despicable figure, and is descended from a mean original. It is the offspring of fear, laziness and impatience. It argues a defect of spirit and resolution, and oftentimes of honesty, too. After all, the exercise of this passion is so troublesome that nothing but dint of evidence and demonstration should force it upon us. I would not despair unless I knew the irrevocable decree was passed, I saw my misdeeds recorded in the book of fate, and signed and sealed by eternity.—Jeremy Taylor.

Cut Flowers Arranged to Express Sentiment

There is romance in the arrangement of cut flowers. At least that is what Japanese girls and women, who spend many hours in the arrangement of a few flowers, believe. It is lucky to have an odd number of flowers, they think. Three is a favorite number, although one, five and even seven are used.

A three-flower arrangement represents heaven, earth and man. The water in the vase or bowl represents the surface of the earth and each flower is arranged at a different distance from it. The flower representing earth naturally has the shortest stem, that standing for man having a longer one and heaven the longest stem. Each of the flowers is always tipped in a different direction.

In the spring the Japanese women bend the flower stems slightly to represent flowers in the wind. When a member of the household goes away, a willow branch is bent and arranged in a vase to represent sorrow for his departure. When flowers are to be given away it is customary to give them in bud. Red flowers are used only for funerals.

Called Gas "Wild Spirit"

John Baptist Van Helmont, a chemist of Brussels, born in 1577, is credited with the first recorded scientific observation of gas. He noted that his heated crucibles did "belch forth a wild spirit, or breath," which he called "geest" or "geist," the Dutch and German for ghost or spirit. That is how gas got its name.

Van Helmont was searching for a means to turn base metals to gold. Had he found a method and transmitted the formula to his successors it is doubtful if the world would have been greatly benefited.

On the other hand his "wild spirit," now tamed and at the command of the humblest household, is a daily and hourly necessity in hundreds of thousands of homes. It supplies all the heat required in huge factories, and is equally adaptable for a single jet.

Malthusian Theory

In an essay Thomas Robert Malthus (1766-1834), a distinguished political economist of his day, pointed out that the natural tendency of population is to increase more rapidly than the means of subsistence, and that hence the time will come when population will outgrow the means of food supply. He counseled that governments should pass laws to restrict marriages, and thus limit the increase of population. These views were not original with Malthus, but were culminated not only by Plato and Aristotle, but also by Franklin, Hume and others in modern times. It was the merit of Malthus to have presented the doctrine in systematic form, with elaborate proofs derived from history.—Kansas City Star.

Brick Goes Far Back

Progress in brick making is typified by improved manufacturing methods and by the numerous and beautiful brick faces that now adorn modern home buildings. Brick, like cement, has been made for centuries. It is perhaps the oldest manufactured building material, going back fully 2,000 years before the time of Abraham. Even in America the use of brick dates back to the time when the Indians in the Southwest made adobe brick thousands of years before the white man came.

MODENA HOME BUREAU HAS VALUABLE DEMONSTRATION

To a large group of Home Bureau members who met at the home of Mrs. Lillian Paltridge in Modena Tuesday afternoon, a most worth while demonstration was given in the home care of the sick. The demonstration was given by Miss Catherine Murphy of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company who is doing public health nursing in Kingston.

Miss Murphy is a graduate of the Kingston City Hospital and has had advance training at the School of Social Work in New York city and at Columbia. Her broad experience coupled with this training gives her prestige which few can claim, and the demonstration she gave was so full of practical suggestions and so complete in manipulation that all present felt very grateful to be able to have the opportunity of seeing her demonstration.

A large percentage of the membership of the Modena Home Bureau was present thus making a pleasant social afternoon as well as a most valuable one. Lovely refreshments were served by the hostess, some plans for the year's work were discussed and all went away feeling that many more worthwhile afternoons were in store for them.

and Commercial

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Nov. 25.—The sharp rally in motor, industrial and railroad stocks today was in line with expectations, following the drastic reactions which accompanied bearish pressure on the market since the middle of last week. Whatever results may have been gained by bearish traders in recent sessions in dislodging weakly held stocks, it was evident that there was considerable short covering to be attended to today, and bullish forces were a little more in evidence.

The volume of trading was below the average. There was little belief in the financial district that the reserve bank directors would change the rediscount rate of the New York bank today at their weekly meeting. Interior banks withdrew funds for their first of December settlements but call money was offered at 4 1/2, a slight decline from yesterday's final rate.

General Motors and Chrysler led a moderate rally in the motor stocks, the former at 112, showing a gain of 6 points, while the latter sold above 180 against yesterday's low at 167 1/2. Reports that the stock after the split-up would command a $4 dividend, equivalent to $16 a share on the present capitalization, was mainly responsible for the better demand for this stock. Du Pont at 116 showed a gain of 11 points over Tuesday's low, while Chandler, Jordan and other low priced shares gained a point or two.

A spectacular 13 point jump to 118 1/2 in Pittsburgh and West Virginia, in the lead of the railroad stocks, followed reports that the Van Swearingen was seeking control of this road through open market purchase of the stock. Atlantic Coast Line jumped 9 points to 237 1/2 in active trading. Missouri Pacific Preferred was up 2 points. Southern Railway, up 3. Numerous active rails gained a point each.

U. S. Steel advanced to 120 1/2, up nearly 3 points, featured the industrial list. American Can sold up 5 points; Cast Iron Pipe, 7; General Electric, 8; American Smelting, 2; Federal Smelting, 3 1/2; Eureka Vacuum Cleaner up 3 to 53. Savage Arms, Radio and other specialty stocks regained a considerable part of their recent losses.

New Weed Killer

Those who dislike having garden paths overgrown with weeds will welcome details of a recent German patent. Certain bromine derivatives known as the solophenolides are either powdered onto the weeds, or else dissolved in water and sprayed on them. The most potent of these compounds recommended by the patent are the sodium and calcium para-toluenesulphonolides. If the sound of it it should kill any weed. The compounds, it is said, may be added to the sprayed before laying the paths in order to prevent any weeds from growing.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Austin, Tex., Nov. 25.—Breaking her silence for the first time since she announced the resignation Monday of two of her appointees on the state highway commission, Governor Miriam A. Governor Ferguson did not indicate what her stand will be on the ultimatum sent her by members of the Texas House, in which it is stated that a special session will be convened by the members themselves if she refuses to do so.

New Fashions for Tots and Misses

Wealth of Fabrics and Colors Provided by Creators of Styles.

It is a fascinating occupation, this creating of costumes, with their changes and variations, for the junior members of a family. There is no other having to do with dress and style that makes such sharp demand upon taste and energy. To meet the requirements of young aspirations and preferences one must have imagination, and that something that perhaps only memory supplies, says a fashion writer in the New York Times.

There is no more chic young person today than the American baby from her christening robe to her graduation dress, and the ideal of each of these and all of her wardrobe may usually be traced to the atelier of some well-known Parisian couturier. The span across the ocean has been narrowing as much for the younger as for the full-grown butterfly, and Paris now offers models for children's dress that challenge the designers of the world.

These styles for children, as translated by American modistes, offer the answer to every need. To begin with the infant class, little frocks are to be had in the fine cottons. These have been introduced this season in imitation of others highly prized for their true worth long years ago. Percalé is an antique to the present generation. But it is offered under a new name with an unqualified indorsement for its quality, durability and wholly respectable aspect.

Now one finds the smartest little morning frocks, play dresses and outfits meant for hard wear made of the English prints—the equivalent of percale. These are a perennial comfort, for they wash, always look fresh, have a bit of warmth, and will outwear the stature of the wearer.

The latest printed materials, the crepes, indestructible volles, chiffons, are all shown in the summer frocks for girls. For the littlest one small patterns are used, and some adorable dresses are made of plain goods in three colors joined to form the entire garment. A party dress copied from a Paris model is made of pale rose, corn silk yellow and light blue, joined

the DIM PAST

Dr. Byron Cummings With a Fire God From Mexico.

THE MacMillan Arctic expedition, which comes home with a wealth of specimens and data valuable to half a dozen sciences and an unrivaled collection of photographs in color and some taken from airplanes, is the most recent of a remarkable series of expeditions sent out by the National Geographic Society to wrest interesting and significant facts from the earth and the forces which play about it.

America has been an important field for these explorations, but they have not been confined either to the Western or Northern Hemisphere. The scope of the work in the American field is indicated by the fact that at the present time explorations are under way in New Mexico at the latest and best built of the ancient pueblo dwellings; and in the valley of Mexico at what is believed to be the remains of the oldest civilization on either of the Americas. Previously an expedition of the society brought to light, at the old town of Machu Picchu, the most important of South American ruins yet discovered.

While it has been seeking knowledge of the Americans of the dim past and collecting information at the top of the world, the society has sent other parties of explorers to learn of strange tribes in unknown parts of Asia. Sometimes amazing incidents, tireless patience and striking contrasts mark the search for new geographic facts. At Chaco Canyon, New Mexico, where one of the society's expeditions is working, new wonders are constantly coming to light. This canyon, in a sparsely settled land, now almost a desert, was anciently one of the most densely populated areas in what is now the United States.

In delving back into the centuries to reconstruct the life of a people who knew nothing of mechanical transport, the explorers built a little railroad and set a tiny engine to work hauling away debris from the fine old structure. Pueblo Bonito—the beautiful village that occupies the canyon. Before it is dumped the debris is examined and even sifted. In such a way they are finding in this backwash of the centuries, evidence of evidence that tell a life in the pueblo many centuries ago.

The structure that is emerging as it accumulates the ages is removed, is really a most unusual apartment house. It houses 1,200 people and was probably the largest domicile on the continent until within recent years when the first of the huge modern apartment was built in New York city.

Wonderful Necklace Found. The extraordinary find that has rewarded the patient and persistent work of Dr. N. M. Judd, the leader of the expedition, is a beautiful necklace made of the bones of birds and fish and other prehistoric animals, some of which are as small as a pinhead. The necklace is made of the bones of birds and fish and other prehistoric animals, some of which are as small as a pinhead.

From the data gathered so far by the work at Pueblo Bonito, Dr. Judd has been able to reconstruct the life of the ancient Americans. He has found that they were a people of great intelligence and skill, and that they were able to build a civilization that has lasted for centuries.

The expedition is now working at the site of the ancient city of Machu Picchu, in Peru. The site is one of the most important in South America, and the expedition is working to uncover the secrets of this ancient city.

Suffered with rheumatism for years

GOT RELIEF FROM RHEUMATISM AT LAST

Spent more than $100 for remedies before help was found

How an obstinate case of rheumatism was given relief by a simple home treatment is told by a man in Los Angeles, California, who suffered for years with rheumatic pain in the feet and back.

"I spent more than $100 for liniments and medicines in twenty-four years," he writes. "Then I used Sloan's Liniment and it gave me complete relief."

And it is amazing—the quick, genuine relief that Sloan's gives to even the most long-standing rheumatic aches. Sloan's doesn't just deaden pain—it helps your body to throw off the cause.

No need to rub even. A little Sloan's, rubbed lightly on, and a healing tide of fresh, germ-destroying blood begins trickling through the aching place. Before you can believe it, the pain, swelling and stiffness are relieved. Try it! All druggists—35 cents.

Grid Schedule Of Nebraskans Hardest of All

Cornhuskers Took on List of Games That Surpassed Hard Program for Penn—Opened Against "Red" Grange—Other Opponents Hard Boiled.

(By Davis J. Walsh)

By Telegraph to The Freeman. New York, Nov. 25.—Plenty of typographical tears have been shed over the man-eating schedule arranged for the University of Pennsylvania football team this fall, but never a sob; not even a sniffle, for Nebraska. The Cornhuskers, as a matter of fundamental fact, took on a list of games that has Pennsylvania's program beaten down to an inaudible whisper.

Penn., for example, took on Brown, Yale, Chicago and Illinois on successive Saturdays. But it was careful to insert a few strategic "breathers" in the form of Ursinus, Swarthmore and Haverford.

Defeated Red Grange.

Nebraska did nothing of the kind. By way of opening its season, it took on Red Grange and the ten apprentice helpers that go to make up the Illinois outfit. The Illini were beaten by two touchdowns. The next opponent was none other than Missouri, the probable Valley Conference champions, and said to be the best team in the Middle West. Nebraska dropped this one by the margin of a field goal.

Two games, two championship opponents! Pretty rapid action, that. But the end was by no means yet.

Nebraska's third meeting of the season was with the University of Washington eleven, which has been burning up the Pacific Coast. This one ended in a 6-to-6 tie.

Having nothing else on its hands, Nebraska then took on Kansas and Oklahoma; a couple of Valley rivals which means a couple of hard boiled opponents. The Huskers won both games but they had to play real football to do it.

Defeated by Drake.

The team, of course, was riding for a fall and it came in the Drake game, the latter winning by two touchdowns.

This was the signal for Nebraska partisans to break out in a deep-throated Bronx cheer for a management that would so far depart from the realms of sanity as to arrange such a schedule.

Nebraska has a great football team, beyond a doubt, but not great enough to lightly laugh off a list of opponents such as those named.

Friedman Meets Walker Tonight

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Nov. 25.—Those bed-time stories the megaphone men went to tell you about the greatness of Mickey Walker as a fighter and a champion may be interrupted at Newark, N. J., tonight by one of the neighbors' children. Walker will step in at the welterweight limit against Sallor Friedman, of Chicago, Philadelphia and way points, and everything pointed to quite a clemency, they say in the lumber camps.

The sailor is rough, rude, rambunctious and several other things. He is so tough, in fact, that he brushes his teeth with a life.

The writer has no particular illusions about Friedman as a prospective champion. He is just one of the boys, in fact, and barring a miracle, never will get any closer to the title than he will tonight.

There will be no decision rendered at the end of the twelve rounds because the boys must ponder to because law. Friedman can win the welterweight title only if he scores a knockout or wins on a foul. Walker will be in there to see that he does neither.

As a matter of fact Walker is champion today only by force of gratuitous circumstances, two judges and a referee having seen Dave Shade as a loser against Walker when ninety per cent of the dear old populace saw David in as an easy winner.

Walker probably will get the unofficial decision tonight, for he likes to maul around with the tough ones and Friedman has little else.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. New York, Nov. 25.—Jimmy DeForest's "new talent" recruited by mail from various sections of the country, showed to excellent advantage at the tryout show staged here last night. Game at Armory Thanksgiving Day

Thanksgiving evening, at the armory the Kingston team of the Tri-County League will engage in battle with the fast Peerless Five of Newburgh. This game should be fast and interesting. A record holiday crowd is expected to turn out for this contest.

In the visitors' line-up will be seen Kane, Canfield, Levinson and De Mott. These players have been playing together for some time and are considered a very strong combination.

Manager Spalt will undoubtedly use the same line-up that has been working in the last couple of games. Dolson and Johnson in front, Spalt or Bruck at center and Thurin and Van Buren in the backfield.

Following the game the usual dancing will be in order.

K. H. S. Grid Team at Yonkers

The Maroon and White grid team will have its final opportunity Thursday of displaying something that looks like football tactics.

The K. H. S. gridiron outfit will fight its tenth and final battle of the year with Gordon High School of Yonkers in the down-river city. The aggregation is a new opponent for the local boys and will be the longest trip of the season. This will be the first time in several years that a K. H. S. team has not played at home on Thanksgiving Day.

The following men will probably make the closing trip of the season: Gallagher, Wonderly, Mollenhauer, Johnson, Bahl, Davis, Smith, Flick, Shurter, Sversky, Leverett, Davenport, Wilson, Howard, Cohen, Rosenzweig, Edwards and Hendricks.

With its Duso League career already completed for the 1925 season, the Maroon and White has seen its most unsuccessful term of gridiron sport, going through the season without a win and consequently occupying the last position in the league tussle.

Football Star Still Lives in N. Y. Orphanage

Bill Madden, of Columbia, Helps Lay His Way by His Work at Institution for Walls—Brought Up in The Home.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. New York, Nov. 25.—"Red" Grange carried ice until everyone in America knew about it.

But Bill Madden goes him one better. He lives in an orphanage and helps to pay his way through college by playing big brother to a lot of small ones. You never heard of William? Neither did the writer until this year he began to tear up opposing lines as a backfield man at Columbia University.

Madden is as unique in his sphere as the ice-toting Grange is in his. He is a product of the Leake and Watts Orphanage, New York. He grew to manhood in the institution and liked the atmosphere so much that he never left it, even when he matriculated at Columbia. He returns nightly to the institution to study and to earn his board and bed by assisting the masters in their duties.

A Full Day.

In the morning and early afternoon, he attends classes at Columbia. Later in the day, he goes out to Baker Field for football practice. A rather full day? But we have already told you that Madden's case is unique.

As a matter of fact, it is more than that. He is the only big college football player, since the memory of man runneth not to the contrary, who can claim a charitable institution as his day-to-day home.

Madden, of course, is the idol of the place, just as Babe Ruth is at the Baltimore institution from whence he came to startle the world. Madden hasn't done that yet but you can't prove it at the Leake and Watts Orphanage. Every yard he gains is like a nickel in the savings bank to the boys at the home.

They have a radio there and, when a Columbia game is being broadcast, all other diversions at the home run for the end book. Their hero, their big brother, is playing football against the men of the world and playing it well.

To them, a king upon his throne could mean no more.

Army-Navy Game Saturday

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 24.—Army had comparatively an easy time with Ursinus on Saturday, but it served McEwan in good stead. It gave him an opportunity to observe the work of both his second and third team men, some of whom showed up very well.

Starting today, McEwan plans to devote the remainder of the week to defensive work against Navy plays and to Army's offensive work, both of these points to be covered in dummy scrimmage primarily.

The punting problem, which has been McEwan's greatest worry all season, is being greatly stressed. Trapnell continues to show steady improvement, especially in speed with which he gets his kicks away. It is most necessary that the Army's kicking game be greatly improved in view of the fact that Stanley of the Navy is one of the best punters in the East. The Navy is certain to start right in with their kicking game.

Bill Jones has devoted most of his time to the first team line's defense against the probable fast-rushing Navy running attack, which, led by Captain Leniz at guard, is one of the Navy's best bets considering the speed and weight of their backfield stars. McEwan intends to devote the first three days of this week to perfecting the Army's offense and defense. Thursday and Friday at present are scheduled for but the lightest of work, merely the polishing-off and finishing-up of the week's work.

The first team lined up today with Baxter and Born ends; Elias and Saunders tackles; Schmidt and Secan guards; Daly center; Yeomans at quarter, and Wilson, Hewitt and Trapnell at backs. Sprague and Harding were in uniform but were used only in signal drill. They are expected to be in good shape by Saturday but McEwan does not plan to give either of them hard work of any kind.

ST. MARY'S CHAMPIONSHIP GAMES ON FRIDAY

Friday evening, at St. Mary's School Hall the St. Mary's Junior quintet will tackle the St. Mary's Senior Holy Name Five, for the championship of the parish.

The Juniors have been going strong this season having won the three games played, and are out to make it four straight by beating their older brothers.

The Junior line-up will be made up of Long, Joyce, Gilday, Claire, Mooney, Noble and Graemer. The Seniors will pick from Long, Murphy, Connelley, Fitzgerald, Leonard, Jordan, Burns and Dawe.

The game will start at 8:15 o'clock. The public is invited to attend.

The LOST WORLD

"I leaned forward toward this strange beautiful creature when a high whickering cry—the call of some great animal with a weird human note—rang out in the darkness. We had just time to scramble into the cave when there came to a great crashing of branches directly above where we had been standing."—Ed Malone's Diary.

Important Grid Games Tomorrow

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Nov. 25.—Form reversals, so prevalent this year in college football, are less in prospect for tomorrow's holiday games than at any time since the early season.

Three unbeaten teams, Alabama, Colgate and Tulane, will go into action for the first time and should emerge with their records intact.

Alabama should get a bitter argument from Georgia at Birmingham, but the team that has scored 259 points against seven this season expects to survive this final test, which, in turn, was beaten by Alabama.

By the same token Brown University, defeated by Yale, Harvard, Dartmouth and Pennsylvania, seems due to drop another one to Colgate, particularly after the latter's victory over Princeton and Syracuse. Only the most climatic of upsets can produce defeats for Alabama and Colgate in these contests. However, such things have happened before and no later than last Saturday.

Tulane also figures to have considerable of an edge on Connery, which last week was beaten by Butler in an intercollegiate game.

Many of the holiday attractions are without great significance, except as meetings between traditional rivals. The Pennsylvania-Cornell game, which does forecast, is an example. Others of the type include meetings between Pittsburgh and Penn State, with Pitt highly favored; West Virginia, W. and J. Rice and Baylor, Vanderbilt and Sewanee, Texas and A. and M. and Texas, Oklahoma and Oklahoma A&M, and St. Mary's and Santa Clara for the minor college title on the coast.

Notre Dame and Nebraska will renew their bitter struggle of other years with national interest looking for once. Both have suffered defeat. Notre Dame generally is favored to win.

Syracuse and Columbia will visit up the New York season, barring the Army and Navy, classic two days later. Syracuse was one of the big teams of the early season but now is figured to lose to Columbia, which has come along splendidly.

Basketball Games At Epworth Hall

Clinton Avenue basketball fans will have plenty of court matches to witness this coming week-end. Thanksgiving Day being one of the biggest days for drawing a crowd at the Epworth Hall court, corner of Liberty street and Clinton avenue, the respective managers have arranged for three games on this day.

The games will all be played in the afternoon, the first match between the Clinton Juniors and the Trinity Lutheran fire beginning at 2:30. Following this match the Clinton Independents and the Congregationalists will meet. The major match of the afternoon will consist of a contest between the Clinton Seniors and the Seniors.

The following is the schedule for the usual Saturday night contests: 7 o'clock, Clinton Juniors vs. Trinity Lutheran Juniors; 8 o'clock, Clinton Independents vs. Trinity Seniors; 9 o'clock, Clinton Seniors vs. Seniors.
